TWENTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRAIN-ING SCHOOL FOR NURSES ATTACHED TO BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.

I N presenting their annual report the Managers of the Training School desire to make it always something more than a record of statistics, for they remember how many of their graduates are occupying responsible positions in different parts of our own country, and even in foreign lands, to whom a word of cheer or a helpful thought will be welcome.

In an address delivered before another society not long since by one of the most thoughtful clergymen in the city occurred this passage :

“We continually hear the complaint made, that there is no opportunity in American life, for leadership on the part of the intelligent and the well endowed, but if we give public life the definition it ought to have, there is no land on the face of the earth, where it is more open to young men of enterprise, and young women of intelligence than in the United States of America. The true idea of public life is the lifting up and ennobling the lives of the whole community in which we live.”

That thought, carried out conscientiously in any position of trust, ennobles the work done, and changes drudgery into privilege, and so we would send it to our graduates as a motto for the coming year.

Hospital service taxes mind and body to the utmost, but in those who have character, it develops a thoughtful seriousness and energy which is the best equipment a woman can have for her life work ; and to uplift physically and morally the lives of those among whom her life is cast, is the highest vocation a woman can desire.

On the first of March, 1896, at the request of the Commissioners of Charities, the Training School assumed charge of the Female Alcoholic Ward. We quote the result from the report of the State Charities Aid Association for the past year.

“During the seven months succeeding the occupation of the Female Alcoholic Ward by the Bellevue Nurses, the deaths numbered thirteen notwithstanding the extreme heat of the weather; during the preceding months there were thirty-nine deaths in those wards. The improvement in the order and quietness of the ward has been remarkable.”

During the year 1896, there were 1762 regular applicants for admission to the School. Of this number fifty-five were accepted on probation, and only ten proved unsatisfactory. Four of the junior class have been dismissed during the year for cause.

There have been 662 calls for private nurses during the year and seventeen applications from hospitals, of which the School has filled twelve.

The course of instruction consists of weekly classes by the Superintendent and her assistant, in Anatomy, Physiology, Materia Medica, Diseases, Obstetrics, and Nursing, both practical and theoretical.

Lectures during the past year have been given by :

Dr. Hermann Biggs on Bacteriology.

Dr. Robert Carlisle on Diseases.

Dr. Jasper Garmony on Surgery and Emergencies.

Dr. Robert Wylie on Obstetrics.

Miss Bannister on Massage.

Lessons in cooking for the sick, once a week, from October to May, at the New York Cooking School.

Of the graduates seven have married during the year and five have died.

During serious illness two graduates have been cared for by the Mary de Witt Cuyler fund, and have made good recoveries.

Again Mr. Northcote has enabled us to open the Edith Home from July to October. Fifty nurses have spent two or more weeks there and thoroughly enjoyed its benefits.

Twelve years ago Bellevue was almost the only Hospital that supplied graduated nurses for private cases.

Now every Hospital has its own Training School, and registry for the benefit of its graduates, and the physicians attending these Hospitals often prefer to employ Nurses trained under their own eye. For this reason, the Managers feel it would be most wise for their younger graduates to accept other openings that may come to them out of New York, rather than to remain in the city, where the supply of Nurses is likely shortly to exceed the demand.

Again we have to record the death of one of the earliest friends and supporters of the Training School. For several years Mrs. Alexander Hamilton was president of the association, and her interest in it did not cease, when her removal to the country obliged her to resign her position. Those who were fellow-managers with Mrs. Hamilton recall with affection her sweet and gracious presence when she presided over their meetings and her wise and kindly counsels, in days when their want of experience made the conduct of such a school full of anxiety and perplexity.

VIRGINIA R. OSBORNE,
Secretary.

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF THE
NEW YORK TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES AT-TACHED TO BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.

BY W. GILL WYLIE, M.D.

JANUARY 19, 1897.

ALTHOUGH I have grown gray in the service of the Training School for Nurses attached to Bellevue Hospital, I must first thank the Board of Managers for the honor they have conferred upon me, in selecting me to address you this evening. My only regret is, that I am not an orator, so as to be able to fully express what I know and feel about the noble women who organized, and have made the School such a great success.

Just a quarter of a century ago, I was House Surgeon on the Third Surgical Division of Bellevue Hospital under the late Dr. James R. Wood, the first of the doctors to give his powerful aid to assist the women of the first Local Visiting Committee of the State Charities Aid Society for Bellevue Hospital, in their great reform movement. I was on my morning rounds in one of our wards, feeling very badly over the loss of a pretty little boy, the night before, whom Dr. Wood had operated on. I had left the little patient in good condition with the nurse, and the next morning had been called to find the nurse partly intoxicated, and the child dying from hæmorrhage ; it was too late to save him. While in this state of mind, I met two refined, well-dressed women in the middle of the ward : one was Mrs. W. H. Osborn, the other Mrs. Joseph Hobson. They spoke to me, asked about the hospital, the nursing, food, management, etc. I had lived in the hospital more than a year and had never met such women there before.

The death of that dear little boy and the talk with those two women, proved an inspiration to me, and that very day I vowed to help to reform the hospital. At one of the first meetings of the State Charities Aid Association, when it was reported that the first plan of the Ladies' Committee on reforming the nursing in Bellevue had been rejected by the Medical Board as impracticable, and the older physicians found it inconvenient to go abroad to study out the best system of training schools for nurses, I volunteered to go to Europe. Under instruction from the women of the Committee, I spent three months abroad studying the question, and in September, 1872, I read my paper—to be found in Document No. 1, State Charities Aid Association, in the Report of the Committee on the Hospital. In all of this I was but the agent of the ladies of the Association. I was merely an enthusiastic youth of twenty-three, and I will mention one little incident which proves beyond question how little men had to do with this reform movement and organization of the School. When I read my report in one of the rooms at Cooper Institute, although many men were invited to be present, there were in the audience before me more than one hundred women and only one man. I am not ashamed to say that I was guided and directed by the corps of women that have filled the ranks, and have done practically all the vast work of the Association, and carried to successful issue the many substantial reforms in our public charities. Some of the best and strongest and most intellectual and influential men that I have known have carried out, under minute and direct instruction, the plans created and given out by the women who from the first have shaped and directed the great reforms of this Association on the broadest and most comprehensive lines, with inexhaustible energy, consummate tact, clear-headed, executive ability, and in the most unassuming manner.

It was a great privilege, and an honor, to have been selected to serve this corps of women who started and have carried to a successful issue such a reform in nursing as this School represents. I was a member of the sub-committee of the Hospital Committee of the State Charities Aid Association, appointed in 1872 to organize this school, and a member of the first Training School Committee, appointed by the first local Committee; and in May, 1875, Drs. James R. Wood, Austin Flint, Sr., Stephen Smith, and myself were selected to examine the first class of graduates. Since then, with one exception, I have personally examined each nurse of every graduating class. I make these statements to show my deep interest, and acknowledge, both as a man and physician, that I have received many times over more than I ever gave in helping on the good work of this School. To have seen the disinterested and untiring work and devotion of the women who have built up this School, added much to my faith and firm belief in all that is good and unselfish, and made me a stronger and a better man. This reform in nursing has spread all over our great country, and trained nurses can be found in almost all cities and towns, but it is still growing. I know that some graduates have hard work to make a living. As a rule, it is an individual fault, but in many cases it is caused by the fact that a large part of the community, even many doctors, have not fully accepted nor realized the great advantage of the trained nurse. There are now over two hundred graduates of this School on the registry kept of those taking private cases, and there are hundreds of graduates of other schools, some good and many inefficient, but still there are more doctors than trained nurses—two or three to one. Now those of us who have been educated fully on this subject know that it is a very poor doctor or surgeon who does not, as a rule, have more than two trained nurses at work under him at a time. Much has been said of the great change in old Bellevue Hospital caused by trained nurses. Those who lived in the hospital twenty-five years ago, and who are on the visiting staff to-day, fully realize the great change, not only in the nursing but in the whole life of the hospital: everything is cleaner and better, especially the moral atmosphere, and the results in our surgical work.

An organized and well-trained company of seventy-four refined, sensible young women, perpetually on duty, has had a good effect on the conduct and character of the thirty or forty young doctors who work and live in the hospital. I don't know anything else that could do this. Now the change effected by trained nurses on the private practice of the profession has not yet been so plainly demonstrated, but gradually it is working a great revolution, especially in all cases of serious illness and surgery. Let me contrast my experience while an assistant fifteen years ago under the great master of Gynæcological Surgery, the late Marion Sims, and what I now accomplish by the assistance of nurses. For several years before his death, I was Dr. Sims' assistant in all of his surgical work, and he had only three or four uneducated and poorly trained women, white and colored, as his own surgical nurses. At that date, very little gynæcological surgery was done outside of the Woman's Hospital and no specially trained nurses in this work were to be had for general use. The death rate then, inside and outside of all hospitals, especially in abdominal surgery, was very high ; no less than thirty per cent. and upward. Only one successful tumor case had been done in Bellevue Hospital up to 1882. To-day, in my practice, I, alone, have constantly in my employ ten nurses in my Sanitarium, and ten or twelve especially trained nurses for my surgical cases outside. It is true that our scientific and practical knowledge about cleanliness has also influenced the brilliant results in surgery obtained to-day. Still, a large portion of it is due to trained nurses now taking the place of the untrained woman and unreliable undergraduate student of medicine in time gone by. In Bellevue on the Fourth Division our average death rate for the past fifteen years is under ten per cent. for all laparotomies, and last year we lost only two patients after operations, or with a death rate of a little over four per cent. for all abdominal operations, and this result was largely due to one of the nurses now before me, who was head nurse in charge of Ward 29, six months of last year. In my private hospital and outside abdominal operating, the average death rate for past nine years is about three per cent., and for the last two years under two per cent.

If I was asked to give up my own specially trained nurses, I could not do it, and get anything like the above results, but if I had to give up my surgical assistants, I could easily fill their places with my nurses as I repeatedly have done. With three of my trained nurses as assistants, I can do any of my most formidable operations without any other assistants, and my practice is to use them in this way more and more, for they remain longer as assistants than it is practicable, as a rule, to keep young surgeons, besides, they are more readily trained into one's own special methods and ways of working. They do all the work of preparing the patients for operations, they clean and get ready my instruments, and they have charge of the patients after operations.

The graduates of this School are rightly considered as the best, for they have many advantages. They are carefully selected each year from many hundreds of applicants. After this they are put on probation for several weeks, and those found wanting in any important requisite to make a first-class nurse are dropped, and others given a trial till all vacancies are satisfactorily filled. This practical application of the great law of evolution or survival of the fittest, applied in a conscientious and impartial manner as is done in this School, is of an incalculable value. Suppose the same was as effectually and as honestly applied to all of our medical students or even to our Bellevue House staff, what an improvement might take place. So carefully has this law of selection been applied, and the practical training of the nurses been taught and learned, that your examining committee has, after both a verbal and oral examination, passed all except two or three of the hundreds of applicants for graduation since its work began twenty-three years ago.

From the beginning there has been a steady improvement in the general average of each class, and the board of examiners considers the standing of this class of graduates before me one of the very best.

For several years past, there has been a strong effort to raise the standard of our medical schools by requiring a four years' course of study instead of three, and soon the same must be done for our nurses, and I would now make the suggestion that the course in this School should be extended to three years, the last year being spent almost entirely in nursing in private families under the special and general supervision of an assistant superintendent, whose duty it would be to supervise the work of each student at private houses and interview each doctor and family employing them. For if this School has a defect in its practical training, it is in not fully preparing all of the students in practical work among private families and homes. The tact, temper, and self-reliance of all nurses trained in our public hospitals are not likely to be as fully tested and developed in hospital work as in private homes where they must decide and act on their own responsibility. Besides, there are many important differences between the requirements necessary to make a first-class nurse in a large public hospital and a successful nurse in the homes of those able to employ one.

In her admirable little book, A Century of Nursing, Miss Abbey H. Woolsey says : " Nursing is a serious business ; it signifies the proper use of fresh air, light, warmth, cleanliness, quiet, the proper selection and administration of food, close observation and report of symptoms, and the most scrupulous fulfilment of medical orders and all with the greatest economy of the patient's strength." These things all of you have been taught and I know that you have done your full duty toward your hospital patients ; the diplomas you are about to receive testify to this in writing, but now, when you go out in the world to work alone, without the firm and guiding presence and kind words of your teachers and the sustaining companionship and example of your fellow-workers, your life and work will be different and more will be needed to bring real success. Many of you may fall into soft places and easily make your living by doing your duty. To make even a material success, it will be necessary to exercise great tact in all that you do, for to get work steadily, you must please your patients and their friends and satisfy all kinds of doctors. You must learn to persuade rather than command, to get in full sympathy with your patients, lift up and sustain rather than antagonize and oppose them. Now, a nurse may do all of this and make money, yet unless she does more, she is a failure. Anyone of you that leaves this room to-night, whose chief ambition is to get twenty-five dollars a week for her work as a nurse, must have a change of heart before she makes a real success as a nurse, and gets out of her profession that happiness and joy which cannot be measured by dollars. Doing one's duty may do in the ordinary avocations of life, but in the work and whole life of a nurse there must be sympathy, pity, charity, yes, and love ; —love that flows from the heart—that which was taught by the Master. Go out and seek it ; when you find it, make it a part of your life and put it into all of your work as a nurse. It prevents harsh words and drives out of sight all that is selfish and bad, sustains the weak, helps the sick, and removes the sting of Death.

REGULATIONS FOR TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES.

THE Committee of the Training School for Nurses has made arrangements with the authorities of Bellevue Hospital for giving two years' training to women desirous of becoming professional nurses.

Those wishing to obtain this course of instruction must themselves apply to the Superintendent of the Training School, 426 East 26th Street, New York, either in person or by letter, upon whose approval they will be received into the School for two months on probation. The preferable age for candidates is from twenty-five to thirty-two years. The applicant should send, with answers to the paper of questions, a letter from a clergyman testifying to her good moral character, and from a physician stating that she is in sound health. Applicants are received at any time during the year when there is a vacancy. A good education is indispensable for a member of the School, but applicants are reminded that women of superior education and cultivation, when equally qualified as nurses, will be preferred to those who do not possess these advantages.

The Superintendent has full power to decide as to their fitness for the work, and the propriety of retaining or dismissing them. She can also, with the approval of the Committee, discharge them at any time in case of misconduct or inefficiency. During the months of probation the pupils are boarded and lodged at the expense of the School, but receive no other compensation. They are not expected to wear the uniform of the School, but must come provided with dresses of washing material, for use in the Hospital. All clothing must be plainly marked.

After the trial months, those who prove satisfactory will be accepted as pupil nurses, after signing an agreement to remain two years in the Training School for Nurses, and to obey the rules of the School and Hospital.

If a nurse, for reasons of her own, leaves the School before the two years have expired, she is expected to refund to the School the money she has cost it.

They will reside in the Home, and serve for the first year as assistants in the wards of Bellevue Hospital ; the second year they will be expected to perform any duty assigned them by the Superintendent, either to act as nurses in the Hospital, or to be sent to private cases among the rich or poor.

The pay for the first year is $7.00 a month, for the second year, $12.00 a month. This sum is allowed for the dress, text-books, and other expenses of the nurse, in connection with her work, and in no wise intended as wages, it being considered that the education given is a full equivalent for her services. They are required, after the months of probation, when on duty, to wear the dress prescribed by the Institution, which is of blue and white seersucker, simply made, white apron and cap, linen collar and cuffs.

The day nurses are on duty from 8 A.M. to 8 P.M., with an hour off for dinner and additional time for exercise and rest. They are also often given an afternoon during the week, and have half of Sunday. A vacation is allowed.

As the Institution is unsectarian, there are no religious services connected with it, except evening prayers, and all nurses are expected to attend the place of worship they prefer once on Sunday.

COURSE OF TRAINING.

The instruction includes :

1. The dressing of blisters, burns, sores, and wounds ; the application of fomentations, poultices, cups, and leeches.
2. The administration of enemas, and use of catheter.
3. The management of appliances for uterine complaints.
4. The best method of friction to the body and extremities.
5. The management of helpless patients ; making beds ; moving, changing, giving bath in bed ; and preventing and dressing bed-sores.
6. The practical care of the insane, and alcoholics.
7. Bandaging, making bandages and rollers, lining of splints.
8. The preparing, cooking, and serving of delicacies for the sick.

They will also be given instruction in the best practical methods of supplying fresh air, warming and ventilating sick-rooms in a proper manner ; and are taught to take care of rooms and wards ; to keep all utensils perfectly clean and disinfected ; to make accurate observations and reports to the physicians of the state of the secretions, expectoration, pulse, skin, appetite, temperature of the body, intelligence—as delirium or stupor,—breathing, sleep, condition of wounds, eruptions, formation of matter, effect of diet, or of stimulants, or of medicines ; and to learn the management of convalescents.

The teaching will be given by visiting and resident physicians and surgeons at the bedsides of the patients, and by the Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent, and head nurses. Lectures, recitations, and demonstrations will take place from time to time, and examinations at stated periods.

When the full term of two years is ended, the nurses thus trained can choose their own field of labor, whether in hospitals, in private families, or in district nursing among the poor. On leaving the school they will, after passing the final examination, each receive a diploma signed by the Examining Board and by a Committee of the Board of Managers.

The Managers of the school wish it to be distinctly understood that they do not guarantee to take all who graduate on the Registry.

BELLEVUE REGISTRY FOR NURSES.

The Managers of the Training School have established a Registry for their graduates, where medical, surgical, and obstetrical nurses, and those competent to take charge of nervous and insane patients, can be obtained by applying either in person, by letter, or telegram, to the office of the Society, 426 East 26th Street.

The terms for the registered nurses are, for obstetrical, nervous, surgical (major), contagious, and men, $25.00 per week. Insane, and alcoholic, $30.00 per week or $5.00 per day.

Infectious and contagious cases include: Scarlet Fever, Measels, Typhoid Fever, Diphtheria, Erysipelas, Septicæmia and Puerperal Fever.

If at a contagious case for less than a week, $4.00 per day; $21.00 per week, or, $3.00 per day for all ordinary cases, including minor surgery.

No extra charge is to be made for attending to the body after death. If called in expressly for this duty, $5.00.

A list of these nurses will be found on page 53.

1. The fee is $10.00 a year, due after January 1st.

2. Nurses are to keep the Superintendent informed of their place of residence, and when they are ready for a call, and also when they have accepted a case either obtained from the office or from any other source.

3. Nurses, while in attendance in the sick-room, are to wear the uniforms, consisting of a cap, apron, and dress of washing material, unless the patient or family object, or the circumstances of the case render such a dress inappropriate.

4. Nurses are to report to the office when, from sickness or any other cause, they are obliged to leave a patient who still needs the services of a nurse, so that their place can be supplied as soon as possible.

5. It is the duty of a nurse to take the care of the patient's room, if her time is not fully occupied by the patient ; and also to make herself acceptable to the family.

6. Before making an engagement a nurse should mention her terms, or if that is not practicable, then, as soon after as convenient, and when an engagement is once made she should consider herself bound to keep it, and not be induced to break her word in order to please a patient or to secure a more advantageous position.

In making obstetrical engagements it is urged on the graduates to be most particular as to date of engagement and terms, so that there be no misunderstanding later.

If any graduate of the school in charge of a case has proved unsatisfactory, the employer is requested to report the fact to the Superintendent.

The regulations for employers are the same as those generally used in registries for nurses :

1. Travelling expenses and washing are to be paid by the employers of the nurses, unless some different arrangement has been made between them.

2. A meal should be provided for a nurse when she is required to be awake all night.

3. When it is necessary for a nurse to care for a very sick person for several nights in succession, she should be allowed not less than six hours' sleep during the days.

4. When taking entire charge of a nervous patient night and day, though a nurse may not lose her sleep, it is better for both patient and nurse that she have some time for exercise in the open air apart from the patient.

It is not expedient to multiply rules, as they are not all of general application, and many details must be regulated by the circumstances of the case. We only ask for the nurses the consideration and kindness due to those who contribute so much to the comfort and well-being of members of the family.
